Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time - Year A

Take it Easy – God Already Loves You Completely

Fr Mark writes:

Tucked away in a photo album from my year as a seminarian in Peru, there's a picture of me trying to "assist" a pair of oxen, yoked together, ploughing the ground. "Don't give up the day job" is, I think, the polite translation of what the farmer was cheerfully saying to me at the time...

For most of us, yokes are no longer part of everyday life. We might even have a hard time picturing one with any detail. But for most of human civilization, that would not be the case. In the ancient world, the yoke had a crucial role. Cattle began to be domesticated around 8,000 BC as a food source and then, some 4,000 years later, came the realisation that cattle could help in the tasks of clearing land, tilling soil, and transporting harvests if they could be "yoked."

Yokes are wooden beams ordinarily fitted across the necks of two cattle that allow them to pull together a heavy load. They have enabled us to farm and trade in ways we never could have before.

From early on, calves (usually male) are trained to listen to the voice of the "teamster" and follow simple directions. They are paired with another young steer they can work well with. They are often castrated to make them more docile and slowly introduced to working with one another under the yoke until they are four years old, at which point they are mature enough to work as oxen following their teamster's instructions.

The yoke naturally became a symbol in ancient civilizations of subjugation. So, for example, I've read that when the ancient Romans conquered an enemy army, they would force the vanquished unit to pass beneath a "yoke" of spears to humiliate them and indicate that they were now in a state of servitude to the empire.

Jesus's own people often used the image of the yoke to describe the oppression and heavy taxation they experienced under foreign nations (e.g. Deut 28:48). The prophet Jeremiah walked around Jerusalem wearing a yoke around his neck as a sign of the peoples' impending subjugation to the Babylonians before the Exile (Jer 27-28).

In the time after the Exile, Jewish sages and teachers engage the image of the yoke in another way. They begin to speak of the Torah as a yoke - basically the way of life indicated in the Torah as an alternative to a life of oppression. Young people were encouraged to seek Wisdom with the words, "Place your neck under her yoke and let your soul receive instruction...See for yourselves that I have laboured and I have found much rest for myself." (Sir 51:23-27)

In the time immediately after Jesus, an early rabbinical commentary states, "Whoever takes upon himself the yoke of Torah, they remove from him the yoke of government and the yoke of world concerns." (Pirkei Avot 3:5)

As such, the "yoke" ironically becomes an image of a new kind of freedom.

It is difficult to know exactly what Jesus means in his use of the image of the yoke. Possibly, in his own time, he is contrasting the yoke he is offering with the subjugation brought about under Roman rule. Alternatively, he has found that the way the Torah is being interpreted has become oppressive to the people, in other words, that the Pharisee's rigid interpretation of God's law was too heavy a "yoke" for the "little ones" who held a claim on Jesus' heart. In either case, Jesus clearly sees his own 'yoke' as gentler, kinder, better for the lives of his audience.

What about us? How do we hear Jesus' invitation?

Perhaps there is some resistance in us: few of us like to think of ourselves as beasts of burden and maybe we rebel against any notion of following another's commands, or even the idea that our lives are somehow bound to others. And surely every metaphor can only be taken so far.

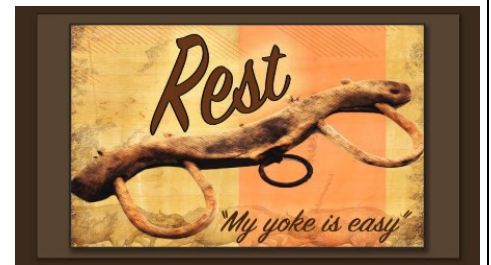

But what of this image remains attractive and worthy in our own time?

Perhaps it is freeing to realize that I don't have to do everything myself and figure out everything on my own. I am a collaborator in a project that is bigger than me and can harness my energies to pull in a direction with Jesus to do work I couldn't do alone. Perhaps it's healthy to realise that it's Jesus who does the 'donkey work' through his grace.

Perhaps it is freeing to acknowledge that living according to Jesus' teaching / Wisdom's yoke is the best kind of life that one could imagine. There's a discipline involved, but it's a good life, a restful life, a peaceful life - and that our initiation into this life is by the gentlest of teachers.

To what extent can we accept that the 'yoke of Jesus' is not some exterior force, perhaps wanting to drive me somewhere unsafe or boring or life-destroying for the benefit of some "teamster" or "slave-owner".

Rather, we are being invited to lay down all our burdens, our worries, our fears, our shame, our weapons of self-defence and attack, and to yoke ourselves to Perfect Love, who draws us to himself in order to offer the true rest that our souls seek and can only find in Him.

Let me finish with the lyrics of a new song which has captured my heart recently, and which you can find here:

Refrain

*Take it easy, easy
God already loves you completely
Take it easy, easy
Rest in the shade of his wings*

*Lay down your burdens and rest for a while
The shepherd who seeks you is gentle and kind
There's nothing to pay for and nothing to earn
And nothing you have to become*

Refrain

*Lay down the scales where you weigh out your life
The measures are empty just leave them behind
The distance between his two hands are enough
To tell you the depths of his love*

Refrain

*Lay down the armour you brought to the fight
Lay down your weapons and lay down your strife
God's on your side and he won't let you go
He already loves who you are
Won't ask you to be something more*

Refrain

Wednesday 12th July – Mass at St Peter's will be at 12.15pm.

There is no Morning Prayer at St Peter's on Friday 14th July.

Welcome to Caedmon Hancock Jones who was baptised at St Peter's Church last weekend. May God bless him with His love and grace, today and always.

PLEASE PRAY FOR the repose of the souls of those who have died recently:
Adrian Baskerville RIP

PRAYER CORNER: Each week, this section will contain an intercession that I hope every parishioner will pray for during the coming week. In this way, we will all pray to the Lord for the parish's mission, because "if the Lord does not build... in vain do the builders labour" (Ps 127:1) Fr. Mark

This Week's Intention: Let us pray that our newly ordained deacon, Tony Darlison, may he be filled by the power of the Holy Spirit to undertake this important ministry in our parish, empowering him to serve both God and his people with hope and joy.

First Holy Communion Masses 2023 – Congratulations to the children who received their First Holy Communion last weekend. We ask that you continue to pray for the Lord to strengthen their faith and increase their love for Him.

Sea Sunday – The Second Collection this Sunday is for Stella Maris (the Apostleship of the Sea), the Catholic Church's maritime charity. Seafarers lead hard and dangerous lives. This Sea Sunday your gifts and prayers will help seafarers and fishers get the support they need. Stella Maris chaplains and volunteers are working in ports up and down this country, and across the world: but they cannot do it without your support.

Donate online at <https://donate.giveasyoulive.com/campaign/apostleship-of-the-sea-second-collection-2023> or in the usual ways: online – with ref Stella Maris, cash in an envelope marked "Stella Maris" or by contactless points in St. Peter's / St. Stephen's.

Ordination of Tony Darlison - on Saturday

Bishop Philip is looking forward to Ordaining Tony Darlison to the Diaconate at 11:00am this Saturday 8th July in Portsmouth Cathedral. All are welcome to attend. You are also invited to attend Tony's first Mass at 10.30am on 9th July 2023.

Parish Party – This weekend On Sunday 9th July, we'll be holding our annual parish party from midday in St. Peter's Pastoral Centre. All are most welcome to join us – young and no longer quite so young – for cold meats, salads, breads, vegetarian options, ice lollies and drinks!

No need to book – just turn up!

New Music Team Leader for the Parish – message from Fr Mark

I'm delighted to welcome and introduce you to Alastair Ross, who is our new parish Music Team Leader.

Alastair brings a wealth of choral experience, having performed with 20 different cathedral choirs across the UK. His last post was leading The Choir Church Project in Portsmouth, an initiative aimed at evangelising children through the power of singing. He has directed choirs of adults and children of various levels of experience in both sacred and secular contexts. You can read more about Alastair's background here.

Alastair's role will mostly be focused on St Peter's, helping to sustain, build and grow our music team, and broaden participation. But he will also develop relationships and collaborative opportunities across all four churches in the parish, in support of the parish vision and plan.

We were very keen for Alastair to join this side of the summer break, so that he has time to get to know as many people as possible over the next few weeks, especially those of you involved in music – with a view to him putting some activities in motion during the autumn. Now that the paperwork has all been completed, we're ready and raring to go. I hope you'll make Alastair welcome, and help him to settle in. He's excited to be getting started and is looking forward to meeting you all. And there'll be a great opportunity at this Sunday's parish party, as he'll be there. Please do introduce yourselves to him. Above all, please keep Alastair and his work in your prayers.

It's been a long journey already, but I hope this is the start of an exciting period for our parish, in our worship of the Lord, and for our mission: to bring people to Jesus Christ in hope and in joy.

Renovated Brass Candlesticks at St Stephen's

The small brass candlesticks were sent to me by Anne Benson as one of the base plates had become detached and needed repair. Judging by their appearance, they had both been repaired several times before - unsuccessfully.

I talked to our wonderful silversmith in Birmingham and he agreed to have a look at the pair and see what he could do. As the 'before and after' photos demonstrate, he not only did a beautiful repair, but also restored them to their original state.

Laudato Si Corner

A recent trip to the USA provided several opportunities to reflect on the effects of climate change on weather patterns. Whilst we were there Texas experienced record-breaking heat levels and a tornado landed in Indiana. The west coast however had experienced a very cold, wet spring and we encountered snow in Wyoming – in June!

But it was not all doom and gloom. Following a winter of snow and rain, California is now reported to be 92% drought free. The Great Salt Lake, which is at risk of disappearing, had risen five feet since last year. We also saw areas of wilderness that had been ravaged by forest fires. The destruction of old timber has led to a wonderful rejuvenation of plant and wildlife in some areas.

Observing this volatility at first hand, we were in awe of the earth's ability to re-generate and revive itself when given the chance. It was a reminder that although time is short, all is not lost. The Great Salt Lake, for example, is still in grave danger - but now there is a breathing space to allow increased efforts to prevent it drying up completely.

So whilst we appreciate the warm summer weather, we pray for the hope and strength to renew our efforts to protect this beautiful planet -God's wonderful creation.

World Youth Day (WYD) – 1st - 6th August 2023

"We're a group of 4 young adults from St Peter's Church in Winchester. Our hope is to raise enough money to supplement our cost to get there. We are all active members of our church communities and very much live out our faith through practical efforts. Some of our activities include: volunteering with young people, welcoming others at Mass, volunteering in social justice, leading prayer groups, and being a part of a Catholic chaplaincy. Our hope is that we return from WYD with a renewed sense of hope, faith and purpose that we can share with our Parish.

This year's World Youth Day is in Lisbon, Portugal. WYD is an amazing opportunity to meet other young Catholics from across the globe and joyfully experience our faith together.
